

Organizations today collect and store huge amounts of customer information and strategic documentation. Without the ability to properly categorize, analyze and retrieve that data, they are challenged to deliver appreciable business benefit. Allstream can help you make a stronger connection between information assets and business processes – promoting more insightful, capable and informed decision-making. Our information management solution encompasses three key offerings:

- Business Intelligence. Realize the full potential of your corporate data with intelligent and insightful information analysis.
- Content Management. Ensure access to timely, accurate and consistent information – over an intranet or the Internet.
- Enterprise Document & Records Management. Develop intuitive business processes to turn enterprise documentation into a corporate knowledge base.

Business Challenge

- Business Intelligence. Allstream makes it easier to efficiently gather, store, access and analyze your data. We connect your data to your business processes – which promotes more insightful, capable and informed decision making.
- Content Management. Dispersed workforces and scarce IT resources can make it difficult to keep web site content current and consistent. Allstream's Content Management solution empowers dispersed work teams to create, edit, manage and self-publish web content.

- Enterprise Document & Records Management. Today's heightened regulatory environment makes storing, sharing and retrieving vast amounts of corporate data an increasingly critical need. Allstream's Enterprise Document & Records Management services can help you develop an integrated system to easily manage and distribute all types of electronic records and documents.

Business Benefits

- Business Intelligence. With solid decision support and reporting systems, online analytical processing and statistical analysis, Allstream helps your organization intelligently mine your data to develop enhanced business forecasts.
- Content Management. Allstream's Content Management solutions make it easy to publish a wide range of content. Data is presented consistently, accurately and securely. Customers receive up-to-date information, publishing workflow bottlenecks are eliminated, and decision making and analysis are improved.
- Enterprise Document & Records Management. Allstream leverages industry standards to enable you to store information in an organized manner, manage multiple document versions and locate the information you're looking for. Information assets are secured, search capabilities are supercharged, existing technology investments are leveraged to minimize training requirements and regulatory compliance is boosted by comprehensive document retention policies.
